

MEMORANDUM

TO: Supreme Court Advisory Committee

FROM: Appellate Rules Subcommittee

RE: Appeals in Parental Termination Cases

DATE: February 28, 2020

I. Matter Referred to Subcommittee

The Court's May 31, 2019 letter and Chairman Babcock's June 3 letter refer the following matter to the Appellate Rules Subcommittee:

Out-of-Time Appeals in Parental Rights Termination Cases. A parent whose appeal from a judgment terminating his rights in a child is untimely may contend that the delay is not his fault and may blame ineffective assistance of counsel. This can complicate and extend the appellate process. The Committee should consider rules to address this situation, including:

- a narrow late-appeal procedure;
- an abate-and-remand procedure like the one proposed in the Phase II Report;
- a habeas- or bill-of-review-style procedure; and
- prophylactic procedures not considered in the Phase I or Phase II Reports, such as a requirement that trial counsel stay on until the notice of appeal has been filed.

Suits Affecting the Parent-Child Relationship. In response to HB 7, passed by the 85th Legislature, the Court appointed the HB 7 Task Force to draft the rules required by the statute and to make any other recommendations for expediting and improving the trial and appeal of cases governed by Family Code Chapter 264. On November 27, 2017, the HB 7 Task Force submitted a report and recommendations to the Court ("Phase I Report"). The Committee studied the Phase I Report and made recommendations to the Court. Subsequently, on December 31, 2018, the Task Force submitted a second report and recommendations to the Court ("Phase II Report"). The Phase II Report is attached to this letter. The Committee should review the Phase II Report and make recommendations.

The HB 7 Phase II Report recommends four changes that affect the appellate rules and also have some bearing on the out-of-time appeal assignment: (1) right to counsel, showing authority to appeal, and frivolous appeals; (2) a procedure in the court of appeals to consider ineffective-assistance-of-counsel claims discovered by appellate counsel; (3) a rule standardizing the currently unwritten understanding on Anders briefs; and (4) opinion templates for use in parental termination cases.

II. Background

The subcommittee and SCAC previously have discussed and approved TRAP amendments relating to out-of-time petitions for review. The subcommittee's July 20, 2017 report on late-filed petitions for review in parental termination cases is attached to this memorandum.

The subcommittee has not considered or discussed a similar procedure in the courts of appeals, nor has the subcommittee addressed a procedure for bringing late claims of ineffective assistance of counsel, Anders briefs, or frivolous appeals.

The Texas Supreme Court has indicated that it will consider the July 2017 proposals regarding late-filed petitions for review in conjunction with any additional recommendations on parental-termination topics identified in the May 31, 2019 referral letter.

III. Issues for Discussion

The subcommittee has broken down the referral topics into two stages to be addressed in the following order.

1. Stage One: Out-of-time appeals and related issues
  - a. HB7 Phase II recommendations: indigent parent's right to counsel on appeal; notice of right to appeal; showing authority to appeal
  - b. Assessing proposals for addressing untimely appeals and ineffective claims
    - i. HB7 Phase II recommendation: abate and remand for evidentiary hearing in support of IAC claim
    - ii. "narrow late-appeal procedure"
    - iii. "habeas- or bill-of-review-style procedure" for a collateral attack
    - iv. other possible procedures such as a requirement that counsel continue the representation until a notice of appeal has been filed.
2. Stage Two: Briefing and Opinions
  - a. Frivolous appeals; Anders procedures in the courts of appeals as discussed by the HB7 task force; "Parental Termination Brief Checklist"
  - b. Opinion templates as created by the HB7 task force

This memo focuses on Stage One, topic 1(a) with respect to the right to counsel on appeal, notice of right to appeal, and showing authority to appeal. The subcommittee will address Stage One, topic 1(b) and Stage Two in later meetings.

IV. Discussion

A. Notice of Right to Appeal and Right to Representation by Counsel

In a suit filed by a governmental entity in which termination of the parent-child relationship or appointment of the entity as conservator of the child is requested, an indigent parent is entitled to representation by counsel until the case is dismissed; all appeals relating to any final order terminating parental rights are exhausted or waived; or the attorney is relieved or replaced. See Tex. Fam. Code § 107.016(3).

The HB7 Task Force made the following recommendations regarding an indigent parent's notice of the right to appeal and the right to counsel on appeal.

The HB7 Task Force proposes that a defendant in a parental-termination suit be notified in the citation about the right to counsel, including the right to counsel on appeal. This will provide an additional measure of notice in the event appointed counsel later declines to pursue an appeal due to abandonment of the case by the parent. The admonition could be added to the required notice and take the following form:

“You have the right to be represented by an attorney. If you are indigent and unable to afford an attorney, you have the right to request the appointment of an attorney by contacting the court at [address], [telephone number]. If you appear in opposition to the suit, claim indigence and request the appointment of an attorney, the court will require you to sign an affidavit of indigence and the court may hear evidence to determine if you are indigent. If the court determines you are indigent and eligible for appointment of an attorney, the court will appoint an attorney to represent you.”

“You are further notified that if a judgment is rendered against you, you have a right to appeal the judgment to the court of appeals and to the Supreme Court of Texas, and if you are indigent an attorney will be appointed to conduct the appeal at no cost to you.”

To the extent the Supreme Court is currently considering a revision of Rule 99 to include standard form citations, the Task Force proposes the creation of a customized form citation, in English and Spanish (and with an internet citation to translations in other languages), to be used in parental termination cases. Such a citation could have language customized to address the availability of default judgments in parental-termination cases.

The subcommittee reviewed and discussed these HB7 Task Force recommendations.

The subcommittee recommends the following revision to the HB7 Task Force's proposed citation language.

“You have the right to be represented by an attorney. If you are indigent and unable to afford an attorney, you have the right to request the appointment of an attorney by contacting the court at [address], [telephone number]. If you appear in opposition to the suit, claim indigence and request the appointment of an attorney, the court will require you to sign an affidavit of indigence and the court may hear evidence to determine if you are indigent. If the court determines you are indigent and eligible for appointment of an attorney, the court will appoint an attorney to represent you at no cost to you.”

“You are further notified that if a judgment is rendered against you, you have a right to appeal the judgment to the court of appeals and to the Supreme Court of Texas, and if you are indigent an attorney will be appointed to conduct the appeal at no cost to you.”

The proposed revision clarifies the practical consequence of being “eligible for appointment of an attorney” and conforms the first paragraph to the second paragraph so they both provide the same information in parallel fashion.

The HB7 Task Force proposal comports with an October 2017 report by the Rules 15-165a Subcommittee entitled, “Modernizing TRCP 99, Issuance and Form of Citation.” The full advisory committee discussed this report at its October 2017 meeting, and the proposed revisions to TRCP 99 are pending before the Texas Supreme Court. Among other things, the October 2017 report recommends eliminating from TRCP 99 the description of a citation’s mandatory contents and instead promulgating a form citation in plain language that clerks must follow. The Appellate Rules Subcommittee endorses the application of this approach to parental termination cases. The Appellate Rules Subcommittee solicits input from the full advisory committee about whether additional language addressing default judgments or other topics specific to parental termination cases should be considered for inclusion in a form citation for parental termination cases.

B. Showing Authority to Appeal

The HB7 Task Force made the following recommendations (footnotes omitted) with respect to requiring an attorney to show authority to pursue an appeal from a termination order.

The filing of a notice of appeal starts the process of immediately preparing a record for which a court reporter might not be compensated. To avoid initiating the preparation of an appellate record in circumstances when a terminated parent may not actually be seeking to challenge a final order, the HB7 Task Force recommends an amendment to Rule 28.4(c) to require that a notice of appeal include an attorney certification that “the attorney consulted with the appellant and the appellant has directed the attorney to pursue to the appeal.” See Appendix C, Rule 28.4(c). The Task Force further proposes a similar certification in a petition for review filed in the Supreme Court. See Appendix D, Rule 53.2(l). As an enforcement mechanism, the Task Force proposes borrowing from the procedure in Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 12 to challenge an attorney’s authority but eliminating the requirement of a sworn motion.

The HB7 Task Force’s proposed rule revisions read in part as follows.

HB7 Task Force Proposed Texas Rule of Appellate Procedure 28.4(c):

(c) Certification by Appointed Counsel and Motion to Show Authority. A notice of appeal filed by appointed counsel must state that the attorney consulted with the appellant and the appellant has directed the attorney to pursue the appeal. A party, the district clerk, or a court reporter may, by written motion stating a belief that the appeal is being prosecuted without authority, cause the attorney to be cited to appear before the court and show his authority to act. The notice of the motion shall be served upon the challenged attorney at least three days before the hearing on the motion. At the hearing on the motion, the burden of proof shall be upon the challenged attorney to show sufficient authority to file the notice of appeal. Upon failure to show such authority, the court shall strike the notice of appeal. The motion shall be heard and determined within ten days of service of the motion, and all appellate deadlines shall be suspended pending the court’s ruling. The court must rule on the motion to show authority not later than the third day following the date of the hearing on the motion, and if the court does not timely rule, the motion is considered to have been denied by operation of law.

HB7 Task Force Proposed Texas Rule of Appellate Procedure 53.2(l):

(l) Certification by Appointed Counsel. In a case in which the petitioner has a statutory right to counsel for purposes of seeking review by the Supreme Court, a petition filed by appointed counsel must state that the attorney consulted with the petitioner and the petitioner has directed the attorney to file a petition for review.

The subcommittee reviewed and discussed these HB7 Task Force proposals.

The subcommittee recommends a different approach regarding an enforcement mechanism in proposed TRAP 28.4(c).

Questions arose among the subcommittee members regarding the necessity of creating a motion-to-show-authority procedure. If the full advisory committee concludes such a procedure is necessary, then the subcommittee recommends creating a simpler procedure. Grafting the procedure from TRCP 12 onto TRAP 28.4(c) makes for a lengthy and potentially cumbersome or redundant appellate rule. Instead of adding language to proposed TRAP 28.4(c) delineating the procedure for challenging authority to appeal, the subcommittee recommends (1) adding a second sentence to proposed TRAP 28.4(c) stating that a motion challenging an attorney's authority to pursue a parental-termination appeal will be handled in the trial court under TRCP 12, and (2) supplementing TRCP 12 as necessary to accommodate the accelerated timeframes applicable to parental-termination appeals.

The full committee discussed the questions of authority and intent to appeal at length during the November 1, 2019 meeting. Substantial consideration was given to the issue of "phantom" appeals pursued on behalf of absent parents whose intent to pursue an appeal from a termination order may be difficult for trial counsel or the trial court to confirm because they cannot be located. The full committee votes indicated a preference for a rule-based procedure under which the trial court would (1) conduct a hearing at the conclusion of trial to determine whether the terminated parent wishes to appeal, and then (2) sign an order or "certification" based on the results of that hearing. The order or "certification" would specify that (1) the terminated parent has not indicated an intent to appeal, and discharge trial counsel; or (2) the terminated parent does intend to appeal, and appoint appellate counsel (or continue trial counsel's appointment to pursue the appeal).

The subcommittee considered this procedure based on the vote and recommends a narrow rule to implement it as discussed further below. One possible location for such a rule is as part of current Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 306, which already contains a specific provision addressing the contents of a judgment in a suit for termination of the parent-child relationship or a suit affecting the parent-child relationship filed by a governmental entity for managing conservatorship. The subcommittee recommends using Rule 306 as the vehicle for any procedure that may be implemented, and consideration of moving the first sentence of Rule 306 to Rule 301.

To obtain practical insights on how such a procedure might work and to identify potential pitfalls, the subcommittee reached out to those who have experience handling these cases. Two key pitfalls were identified.

- It is problematic to infer an intent to relinquish parental rights, or to relinquish the right to appeal from a termination order, solely from a terminated parent's absence at trial or periodic absences as a case progresses. Parents subject to termination may "disappear" from a case for periods of time and become unreachable by counsel because they are homeless, or incarcerated, or experiencing domestic violence, or experiencing untreated mental illness, or experiencing the effects of substance abuse. It is not uncommon for parents in these circumstances to re-establish contact with counsel after trial when their circumstances have stabilized and express a desire to challenge a termination order on appeal. For this reason, a rule permitting the trial court to determine an intent not to appeal based solely on the parent's absence from trial, or trial counsel's inability to communicate with a parent who previously has been participating in the case but has become unreachable, potentially could operate to foreclose the appellate rights of parents who later will express a desire to appeal.

- Parents who are present for trial may be difficult to reach after trial, which counsels in favor of having any hearing and determination with respect to an intent to appeal occur at the close of trial instead of when the judgment is signed.

Based on this input, the subcommittee recommends an addition to Rule 306 addressing intent to appeal from a termination order under which non-appearance at trial would give rise to a permissible inference that the terminated parent does not wish to appeal only when a parent (1) is identified as an "alleged" or "presumed" parent; (2) has never been located or involved in the case; and (3) is represented at trial only because the trial court has appointed an attorney ad litem to represent the "alleged" or "presumed" parent at trial. Otherwise, absence from trial would not be a basis for inferring an intent not to appeal for purposes of an order or "certification" of intent to appeal after trial.

C. Motions for Extension of Time and Conformity With Revisions to TRAP 4.7

Later subcommittee reports will address issues concerning extensions of time by an indigent parent with a statutory right to appointed counsel if the indigent parent's appointed counsel fails to timely pursue an appeal. At this juncture, the subcommittee recommends that any standards or procedures adopted for earlier appellate proceedings be compatible with those ultimately adopted with respect to petitions for review in the Texas Supreme Court.

As noted earlier, the subcommittee and SCAC previously have discussed and approved TRAP amendments relating to out-of-time petitions for review. The subcommittee's July 20, 2017 report on late-filed petitions for review in parental termination cases is attached to this memorandum.
